FOREWORD

The 1991 edition of Analysis of Workers Compensation Laws offers an overview of the important provisions of workers compensation statutes and is intended to provide both a comparison and an improved understanding of the various laws. Sixteen detailed charts are presented to aid employers, employees, insurance firms, agents, brokers, attorneys, physicians, and others in locating specific provisions of workers compensation laws.

The Analysis tracks the laws of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico, as well as the statutory provisions of American Samoa and the U.S. Virgin Islands. Full treatment is also provided for the federal, provincial, and territorial laws of Canada.

Although the Analysis provides essential information needed daily in many business offices, it should not be considered as supplanting exact provisions to be found in statutory texts.

The underlying data required to bring together this publication were supplied by legislative reporting services, insurance companies, and government officials in the several states and jurisdictions. Additional assistance came from the Social Security Administration, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The research, analysis, and editing of the charts and text was furnished by Carol B. Meyer, Research Analyst, Resources Policy of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. For further information, you can write to her at 1615 H Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20062 or phone (202) 463-5533.

INTRODUCTION

HISTORY OF WORKERS COMPENSATION AND EMPLOYER'S LIABILITY

Workers compensation laws are designed to provide satisfactory means of handling occupational disabilities. A 20th century development in North America, the laws have evolved as the economy became more industrial and less agricultural.

Before these laws were enacted, a well-established common-law principle held that a master or employer was responsible for injury or death of employees resulting from a negligent act by him. Thus, disabled workers who sued employers for damages had to prove their injuries were due to employer negligence—a slow, costly, uncertain legal process. As business enterprise and machine production expanded, the number of industrial accidents and personal-injury suits increased. At the close of the 19th century it was apparent that the accepted common-law defenses—contributory negligence, assumption of risk, negligent acts of fellow servants—operated too harshly on claims of disabled workers. The situation led to demands for new legal provisions.

As a result, between 1900 and 1910 so-called employer's liability laws were adopted by many states. Although they tended to modify common-law defenses, they did not prove completely satisfactory; employees still had to prove employer responsibility and negligence. Other legal remedies were urged.

A new answer was forthcoming: In 1911 the first workers compensation laws were enacted in the United States on an enduring basis. The first comprehensive Canadian laws were enacted in 1915.

Today, each of the 50 states has a workers compensation law. The compensation laws of American Samoa, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands are also outlined in this Analysis. Federal workers compensation laws have been enacted; for example, the District of Columbia Workmen's Compensation Act, the Federal Employees' Compensation Act, and the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers Compensation Act—the latter providing for private or public employees in nationwide maritime work. Each of the Canadian provinces and territories has a compensation act or ordinance.

In essence, workers compensation laws hold that industrial employers should assume costs of occupational disabilities without regard to any fault involved. Resulting economic losses are considered costs of production—chargeable, to the extent possible, as a price factor. The laws serve to relieve employers of liability from common-law suits involving negligence.

Six basic objectives underlie workers compensation laws:

1—Provide sure, prompt, and reasonable income and medical benefits to work-accident victims, or income benefits to their dependents, regardless of fault;

2—Provide a single remedy and reduce court delays, costs, and workloads arising out of personal-injury litigation;

3—Relieve public and private charities of financial drains—incident to uncompensated industrial accidents;

4—Eliminate payment of fees to lawyers and witnesses as well as time-consuming trials and appeals;

5—Encourage maximum employer interest in safety and rehabilitation through an appropriate experience-rating mechanism; and

6—Promote frank study of causes of accidents (rather than concealment of fault)—reducing preventable accidents and human suffering.

To what extent have the laws achieved desired objectives? Answers to this vary from state to state and depend on many factors including the viewpoint of the appraiser.

However, a 1972 evaluation by the National Commission on State Workmen's Compensation Laws concluded that state laws were not living up to their potential, and the Commission made 84 recommendations for the improvement of the system. Nineteen of these were labeled "essential." Despite this negative assessment, the Commission was convinced that workers compensation is a fundamentally sound system and a valued institution in our industrial economy.

In January 1976, the policy group of the Inter-Agency Workers' Compensation Task Force, with members from several U.S. government departments and agencies, reported its findings on the need for reform of state workers compensation programs. Essentially, the Task Force found that existing programs must be reformed to bring about more effective management at the state level, with the federal government monitoring progress and providing technical assistance. The group felt that, without a reordering of priorities and a new mode of operation, workers compensation would become more expensive, less equitable, and less effective. After completing its mission, the Task Force was merged with the Division of State Workers' Compensation Standards in the Office of Workers' Compensation Programs, Department of Labor.

The constructive criticism rendered by the Commission and the Task Force gave new impetus to the development and growth of workers compensation laws, and these laws now enjoy a more prominent role within the social insurance system of the United States.

The National Commission and the Task Force both rejected proposals to replace the various state programs with one federal program. Nevertheless, legislation has been introduced in the U.S. Congress for the past several years to give the federal government a direct role in the state systems by setting federally mandated "minimum standards." There has never been sufficient support for these bills to move them beyond the committee level, however.

INTRODUCTION
GENERAL INFORMATION

This analysis of workers compensation laws attempts to provide a ready reference to the statutory provisions found in the federal, state, and territorial laws of the United States and the federal, provincial, and territorial laws of Canada. American Samoa, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands are included.

In the following pages, 16 charts will be found grouped under three categories:

- Coverage of Laws, listing the various requirements pertaining to employments, injuries, and diseases (Part I);
- Benefits Provided, detailing the required income replacement benefits and medical benefits (Part II);
- Administration of Laws, grouping the many administrative requirements and safeguards (Part III).

COMMENTS ON CHARTS

Complete up to January 1, 1991, the charts on the following pages present the statutory provisions of the workers compensation laws as amended. The effects of many decisions—by courts and administrative agencies—have been taken into account in interpreting these laws.

All provisions presented by the charts in this booklet have required study and interpretation to reduce them to the brief statements found in the charts. In some cases space does not permit sufficient explanation to clarify all points. In such cases it is suggested that the text of the law should be examined.

For an explanation of the abbreviations used in the charts and a note on benefit computations, see page 49.

FEDERAL AND DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA LAWS

Two federal workers compensation laws are charted. The Federal Employees' Compensation Act (F.E.C.A.) governs compensation of all employees of the United States government. The Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act provides job disability benefits for all U.S. maritime employment and certain others. Courts have held that the Longshore Act does not apply to maritime employment in Puerto Rico, however.

Entries for the District of Columbia are derived from the District of Columbia Workers' Compensation Act, a D.C. enactment replacing the Longshore Act, effective July 26, 1982. D.C. government employees are covered by a separate D.C. enactment that replaces the F.E.C.A. The law for D.C. government workers is not charted except where it differs materially from the F.E.C.A.

The charts do not cover the federal Black Lung Act, the disability provisions of the Social Security program, the Federal Employer's Liability Act (Jones Act), or veterans' benefits.

CANADIAN LAWS

This booklet includes an analysis of the Canadian federal and provincial workers compensation acts. Each province and territory administers its own act or ordinance. The federal Merchant Seamen's Compensation Act is charted, also.

Employees of the Canadian federal government are compensated under the Government Employees' Compensation Act, administered by Labour Canada. Compensation is paid by the Canadian government, but the amount is determined by the workers compensation board for the province where the worker is usually employed. Government employees residing in the Northwest Territories or the Yukon Territory may receive compensation in accordance with the Alberta Act. In view of this arrangement, the charts do not include the Government Employees' Compensation Act except where it differs materially from the provincial acts.

ANNUAL COST

Reporting in Social Security Bulletin, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services estimated that employers spent just over $42.9 billion in 1988 to insure or self-insure their work-injury risks. This was $4.8 billion, or 13 percent higher than the 1987 cost of workers compensation. The prior year, the increase in cost was 12 percent. The average cost per $100 of payroll was $2.15 for 1988, compared with $2.06 for 1987.

Medical costs totaled $11.5 billion in 1988. Compensation payments amounted to $19.2 billion—about 57 percent of all workers compensation payments, which totaled $30.7 billion. Figures for 1989 were not available at the time of publication.

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1990

The United States Congress and legislatures in 48 states convened in 1990. In all, more than 235 laws were enacted covering almost every aspect of workers compensation.

Benefits: Maximum indemnity benefit levels increased in 47 states, the District of Columbia as well as under the Longshore Act and F.E.C.A. Thirty nine states, the District of Columbia and the Virgin Islands now provide for the automatic adjustment of the maximum annually, based upon the state average weekly wage. Two other states change the maximum level more than once annually. In 42 states and the District of Columbia, the maximum weekly benefit now equals or exceeds 66-2/3 percent of the statewide average weekly wage for temporary total disability cases. Of these 31 pay 100 percent or more.

Federal Legislation: During 1990, Congress did not act on the occupational disease notification and prevention legislation. S. 582 was introduced in 1989 by Senator Howard Metzenbaum (D-OH). H.R. 3067 was introduced also in 1989 by Representative Joseph Gaydos (D-PA). Although there was no action on either of these bills during the 101st Congress, it is anticipated that occupational disease notification legislation will be addressed during the 102nd Congress.

The Product Liability Reform Act of 1989, H.R. 2700, and the Senate version S. 1400, if passed would have limited manufacturers' and sellers' liability for defective products. These proposals would have allowed an employee's workers compensation benefit to be reduced by the amount of the product liability award. This provision would not apply if the employer could prove that the injury was not caused by the fault of the employer or a co-employee of the injured worker. Both bills also would have prohibited manufacturers from suing employers to make the employer contribute his share of the fault to the product liability award. If an employer attempts to recapture his workers compensation benefits from the manufacturer, the employer loses this protection against lawsuits by the manufacturer. S. 1400 was reported out of the Senate Commerce, Science & Transportation Committee but was not called up on the Senate floor. There was no action on H.R. 2700. Similar bills are expected to be introduced during the 102nd Congress.

NEXT EDITION OF THE ANALYSIS OF WORKERS COMPENSATION LAWS

Forty-nine state legislatures and Congress convene in 1991. Undoubtedly, there will be numerous changes in many workers compensation laws. A complete revision of this volume is printed annually. The 1992 edition will be available in March 1992. It will reflect changes made in workers compensation laws up to January 1, 1992.

A mid-summer supplement will be available for the first time in 1991. To order the Annual Supplement to the Analysis of Workers Compensation Laws, 1991 edition (#0245), return the special card included with this edition of the Analysis, or simply use one of the order forms on page 53 of this book.

PART 1
COVERAGE OF LAWS

A basic and oft-repeated objective of workers compensation on which there is broad agreement is that coverage under the acts should be virtually, if not completely, universal. For various historical, political, economic, or administrative reasons no state law covers all forms of employment.

In 1988 the proportion of all wages and salary employees covered by job-injury laws was 87 percent representing 91.3 million workers. Covered payrolls amounted to approximately $2.0 trillion, or approximately 84 percent of total civilian wage and salary disbursements. Charts I through III delineate the statutory employment coverage requirements.

Another basic objective for workers compensation is to provide compensation for all work-related injuries and diseases. Note that workers compensation does not seek to cover all worker health problems. To make this distinction, fairly uniform statutory definitions and tests have been adopted in each state. Typically the statute limits compensation benefits to "personal injury caused by accidents arising out of and in the course of employment."

Although the test is fairly uniform, its interpretation has not resulted in completely uniform coverage of injuries and diseases. Initially, this problem was remedied by providing coverage for specific occupational diseases. With advances in medical technology and increased exposures to a growing number of substances with a variety of physical stresses, it became impractical to define work-related diseases by specific enumeration. The states have therefore amended their statutes to provide coverage of all occupational diseases. Chart IV portrays the status of the laws on this point.

TYPE OF LAW: CHART I

Compensation laws are compulsory or elective. Under an elective law, the employer may accept or reject the act, but if he rejects it he loses the three common-law defenses—assumption of risk, negligence of fellow employees, and contributory negligence. Practically, this means that all the laws, in effect, are "compulsory." A compulsory law requires each employer within its scope to accept its provisions and provide for benefits specified. Coverage is still elective in only three states: South Carolina, New Jersey, and Texas.

Suits for Damages—Under workers compensation acts employers generally are exempted from damage suits. Where an employee rejects the act, and sues an employer who has accepted it, the employer usually retains the three common-law defenses. Conditions for rejection of the act often are so severe as to make the privilege virtually inoperative. In a few states, however, courts have created exceptions to the exclusive remedy rule under certain circumstances.

INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS: CHART I

Security for Payment of Benefits—Most jurisdictions require employers to obtain insurance or prove financial ability to carry their own risk.

Chart I notes provisions relating to (1) insurance requirements, (2) penalties for failure to insure, and (3) whether self-insurance or group self-insurance is permitted.

Six states, two U.S. territories, and most provinces require employers to insure in a monopolistic state or provincial fund; in some instances, employers may qualify as self-insurers. Thirteen states permit employers to purchase insurance either from a competitive state fund or private insurance company. Five of the six monopolistic state funds were created between 1913 and 1915, when the principles of workers compensation were still new. In 1988, state funds collected $6.2 billion in premiums.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce advocates that employers be permitted to buy private insurance if they so desire and that employers who can qualify be allowed to be self-insurers. Chamber policy states:

"Insurance is an integral part of private enterprise. Insurance should not be regarded as a function to be carried on by the government, and insurance monopolies carried on by governmentally created entities should not be permitted."

Self-Insurers—Some large corporations prefer to assume liability for workers compensation and avoid administrative costs associated with insurance policies. Twenty-eight states and the Longshore Act authorize group self-insurance for smaller employers who pool their risks and liabilities. Employers spent approximately $6.3 billion in 1988 on self-insurance.

Self-insurance operates best when an employer has a spread of risks so large that he may benefit from the law of large numbers. It is necessary and desirable that the self-insurer establish his own protective services—similar to those insurance companies would furnish for safety engineering and claims adjustment. Also, the self-insurer may have to retain attorneys and doctors to handle problems incident to claims and medical and legal services.

Self-insurance is permitted in 47 states—as shown in Chart I. Chart I also reflects those states that specifically authorize group self-insurance.

Employers may set up a reserve fund for self-insurance to pay compensation and other benefits under the workers compensation acts of the states. Contrary to the treatment accorded insurance premiums, amounts paid into this reserve fund are not always deductible from gross income as a business expense for income tax purposes. However, amounts paid out—as cash or medical benefits—are deductible. In many cases insurance is purchased because such purchase can dispose of the item of expense and future cost in the current year.

PRIVATE AND PUBLIC EMPLOYMENTS: CHART II

Virtually all industrial employment is covered by workers compensation. Chart II shows this in detail; also it indicates the extent of coverage for public employment.

Some jurisdictions cover all private employment; others exempt those with less than a stipulated number of employees. Most jurisdictions specifically exclude certain employments. Due to the nature of the work, farm labor, domestic servants, and casual employees usually are exempted. Most jurisdictions permit employees in an exempted class to be brought in voluntarily by the employer or by administrative agency order.

Many jurisdictions provide workers compensation for all or certain classes of public employees.

Merchant marine and railroad workers in interstate commerce generally are not covered by workers compensation acts and may seek damages under the Federal Employer's Liability Act.

MINORS: CHART III

Minors are covered by workers compensation. Some jurisdictions provide double compensation or added penalties—as shown in Chart III. In many states minors also enjoy special legal protections. These are specifically noted for each state.

OCCUPATIONAL DISEASES: CHART IV

Although workers compensation laws initially had no specific provisions for occupational diseases, now all states recognize responsibility for them. Coverage extends to all diseases arising out of and in the course of employment. Most states do not provide compensation for a disease that is an "ordinary disease of life" or which is not "peculiar to or characteristic of" the employee's occupation.

Chart IV outlines provisions governing occupational disease in each jurisdiction. Generally, compensation is the same as for traumatic injuries (see Part II). Medical care is unlimited. A few states that do not provide permanent partial disability benefits for certain diseases are charted under the heading "Compensation."

Occupational diseases usually become evident during employment or soon after exposure. However, as with radiation disabilities, certain diseases may be latent for considerable time. As Chart IV notes, most states have extended periods in which claims may be filed concerning latent, slowly developing occupational diseases.

Some states impose special restrictions regarding disability resulting from exposure to coal dust, asbestos, silica, or radiation. A number of states have established presumptions for police and firefighters who have heart attacks or respiratory conditions, but no attempt is made to chart them.

OCCUPATIONAL HEARING LOSS: CHART V

The difficulty of distinguishing between work-related permanent hearing loss and loss of hearing caused by nonoccupational factors has resulted in enactment of special provisions in certain states, as shown in Chart V. Entries include the threshold for compensable loss of hearing, minimum exposure requirements, and deductions for loss caused by aging (presbycusis).

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

A. Accident Prevention—The encouragement of safety is another basic objective of workers compensation. The effort to reduce the frequency and severity of work-related injuries is accomplished in at least two ways.

First, the workers compensation program provides employers with preventive services, including safety engineering. This role is assumed by casualty insurance carriers, state funds and safety agencies, and employers. A second general role is to provide a monetary incentive to employers to improve their safety records. Here the insurance premium structure is a primary force.

Costs of accident-prevention services are included in workers compensation insurance premiums. Casualty insurance engineers help in setting up accident-prevention programs of continuing benefit. Benefits are found in lower insurance rates, increased production efficiency, and better use of manpower. Of course, the greatest beneficiaries are those kept from industrial accidents through application of effective loss-prevention engineering methods.

B. Ratemaking Service Organizations—Premium rates for workers compensation insurance are compiled scientifically. Accident experience throughout American business is collected by ratemaking service organizations. In eleven states, there are independent rating organizations, and, in the remaining states, excluding those with monopolistic state funds, a national organization, the National Council on Compensation Insurance, exists to collect data and prepare manual rates. The rates prepared by all rating organizations generally are used as a basis for premium charges made by stock and mutual companies.

Member companies of the ratemaking service organizations report experience incurred under workers compensation policies. This experience serves as a basis for workers compensation rate determinations in accord with a standard nationwide rate-making procedure approved by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

Rating organization manuals are standard with all insurance companies writing business in each state where such organizations are licensed to perform ratemaking services. These manuals set forth rules, procedures, and rates applicable to workers compensation insurance. Where statutes provide for rate regulation by a state supervising authority, revised compensation rates and supporting data are filed annually with it; often, public hearings are held before rates are revised. The supervising authority must approve the rates carriers charge. All states now provide for rate regulation by state authority. In Canada rates are in the form of an assessment—established by each provincial compensation board annually by class of risk.

As set forth in these manuals, compensation rates are based on payroll. Usually only an estimated premium is collected when the policy is written. After the policy expires, a payroll audit is required. The actual premium is then figured and adjustments made.

C. Injuries Outside the Jurisdiction—Frequently, when a worker's occupation takes him into another jurisdiction, questions arise as to which law determines compensation payable. In effect, most compensation laws are extraterritorial—either by specific provisions or court decision. Answers depend on provisions of the particular laws involved and require consideration of circumstances—such as place and nature of employment, place where contract was made, employee's residence, and employer's place of business.

D. Civil Defense and Other Volunteers—Many states have laws to compensate civil defense and other volunteer workers (such as firemen) injured in line of duty. Attention is called to these laws, but no attempt is made to chart their provisions.

E. Black Lung Act—The Federal Black Lung Act (Title IV of the federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969, as amended in 1972, 1978, and 1981) provides benefits for total disability or death caused by respiratory illness attributable to coal mining (black lung disease). The Act is administered by the Division of Coal Mine Workers in the U.S. Department of Labor's Office of Workmen's Compensation Programs and by the Social Security Administration.

Effective January 1, 1991, monthly benefits range from $387.10 to $774.10, computed at 37-1/2 percent of the monthly pay for federal employees at GS 2, Step 1, plus an allowance for dependents equal to 50%, 75%, or 100% of the basic benefit, for 1, 2, or 3 or more dependents, respectively.

A total of almost $7.5 billion in black lung payments have been made to claimants from 1974 to 1990. In fiscal year 1990, about $573 million was paid to approximately 81,000 claimants each month.

A Black Lung Disability Trust Fund, financed by an excise tax on coal production, was set up by the 1978 amendments to pay claims where the last employment was prior to 1970 or where no responsible coal mine operator has been identified. The fund was in deficit by $3.049 billion as of September 30, 1990, despite 1981 amendments that doubled the coal tax and revised eligibility criteria in an effort to make the fund solvent.

F. Social Security Disability—The federal Social Security Disability program pays benefits on behalf of disabled workers under age 65 whose disability is expected to last 12 months or result in death. A worker becomes eligible after a minimum period of employment covered by Social Security, measured in calendar quarters. There is a 5-month waiting period.

Cash benefits are payable monthly based on wages in covered employment, plus allowances for spouse and children. Effective January 1, 1991, the maximum is $1,214 for an individual, family maximum is $1,821. Average monthly benefit awarded in December 1990 was $587.23. Cost-of-living increases are effective each December, payable the following January.

Benefits are paid out of the Disability Trust Fund, financed from the federal Social Security tax.

Combined Social Security Disability and workers compensation benefits may not exceed 80 percent of "average current earnings" prior to disability. The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981 requires that Social Security disability benefits supplement workers compensation unless state law provided for a reverse offset on or before February 18, 1981.

CHART I TYPE OF LAW AND INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS January 1, 1991

JURISDICTION	TYPE OF LAW	INSURANCE	SELF-INSURANCE	PENALTIES ON FAILURE TO INSURE
ALABAMA	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Fine of not less than $25 nor more than $1,000. Employer may be enjoined from doing business and liable to suit with defenses abrogated and double amount of compensation.
ALASKA	Compulsory	Required	Permitted	Class B or C felony (up to 1 year imprisonment, $10,000 fine, or both). Board may enjoin use of labor. Employer liable to suit with defenses abrogated, and employer negligence presumed proximate cause of injury. Individuals in charge of corporation personally liable for compensation.
AMERICAN SAMOA	Compulsory	Required	Permitted	Misdemeanor; fine up to $1,000 or imprisonment up to 1 year, or both. Employer liable to suit with defenses abrogated.
ARIZONA	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Employer liable to suit with defenses abrogated; 10% penalty of award, expenses, and attorney's fees, or $500 (whichever is greater) plus 10% interest on amount paid from fund and penalty; award paid from Special Fund; injunction against doing business in state.
ARKANSAS	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group*	$500 fine or 1 year imprisonment, or both; employer liable to suit with defenses abrogated.
CALIFORNIA	Compulsory	Required	Permitted	Employer may be enjoined from doing business. Mandatory penalty upon issuance of stop order is $500 per employee, (maximum $50,000). If a claim is filed and an employer has not secured coverage, the employer is liable to pay $1,000 per employee in non-compensable cases and $5,000 per employee in compensable cases. Failure to obey stop order is misdemeanor; penalty is fine up to $1,000, imprisonment up to 60 days, or both. $50 penalty for failure to respond to Director's inquiry. Penalties are paid into Uninsured Employers Fund and constitute lien on employer's assets. Employee may sue for damages with employer's defenses abrogated and file for compensation. Intentional failure to insure is misdemeanor.
COLORADO	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Compensation increased 50% or employer liable to suit with defenses abrogated (at option of employee). Employer may also be enjoined from doing business.
CONNECTICUT	Compulsory	Required	Permitted	Fine of not more than $1,000 for failure to insure. Employer may be enjoined from entering into any contracts of employment.
DELAWARE	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Fine of 10 cents per day per employee (maximum $50, minimum $1 per day); if default continues for 30 days employer may be enjoined from doing business. Employer liable to suit with defenses abrogated.
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA	Compulsory	Required	Permitted	Fine of not more than $1,000 or 1 year imprisonment or both.
FLORIDA	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Fine of not more than $500 if upon receiving written notice requesting proof of coverage and employer is unable to prove he has secured coverage and if coverage is not secured within 96 hours of receiving notice, $100/day is assessed until coverage is secured. Also, up to one year imprisonment and employer liable to suit with defenses abrogated, and may be enjoined from doing business.
GEORGIA	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Misdemeanor. Compensation may be increased 10% plus attorney's fees. Penalty up to $50 per day.
GUAM	Compulsory	Required	Not permitted	Uninsured employers may be sued at law or in admiralty. Insured employer liability is exclusive for contribution among joint tort feasors against the employer.
HAWAII	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	$250 or $10 per employee per day during default, whichever is greater. Employer may be enjoined from doing business.
IDAHO	Compulsory	Required	Permitted	Misdemeanor. Employer also liable to penalty of $2 per day per employee, and may be enjoined from doing business after 30 days default. If employer has been assessed a penalty within 3 years and continues failure to insure, he is then assessed $500 for the second violation and $1,000 for each violation thereafter.
ILLINOIS	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Fine of up to $500 for each day's default; employer liable to suit.
INDIANA	Compulsory	Required	Permitted*	Class A infraction—maximum fine $10,000. Uninsured employer may be liable for medical and legal expenses plus double compensation and may be enjoined from doing business.
IOWA	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Employer liable to suit with defenses abrogated and presumption of negligence of employer. In coal mining, employer is liable to penalty of $10 to $100 per day and may be enjoined from further noncompliance.
KANSAS	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Employer liable to suit with defenses abrogated.
KENTUCKY	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Failure to secure payment of compensation—claimant may claim compensation and bring action at law or in admiralty with employer's common law defenses abrogated. Employer may be enjoined from doing business.
LOUISIANA	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	12% penalty and reasonable attorney's fees for collection of claim.
MAINE	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group	Employer liable for civil penalty of up to $10,000 payable to Second Injury Fund. Corporate employers subject to revocation or suspension of its authority to do business. Class D crime. Employer liable to suit with defenses abrogated.
MARYLAND	Compulsory	Required	Individual and group*	Fine of $500 to $5,000 and/or imprisonment for not more than 1 year. Additional penalty for failure to comply with Commission's orders amounting to 6 months insurance premiums. Employer also liable to suit with defenses abrogated. Other insurers assessed to pay unpaid claims of insolvent insurer. Fine of $300 and 15% penalty on award payable to Uninsured Employers Fund.

NOTE: State courts vary in decisions whether minimum of persons must be in state.

[1] Compensation laws are classified as compulsory or elective. A compulsory law requires every employer to accept the act and pay the compensation specified. An elective act is one in which the employer has the option of either accepting or rejecting the act, but if he rejects it he loses the customary common law defenses (risk assumed by employee, negligence of fellow servants, and contributory negligence). In most states workers in excepted or excluded employments may be brought under coverage of the act through voluntary action of the employer. In other states, such action of the employer must be concurred in by the employees.

[2] Applying to private employments only. The exceptions for public employments are given under "Employments Covered—Public."

[3] Outworker is person to whom articles are given for cleaning, repair, etc., at home.

Ala. *Employees of all county and city bds. of education, Ala. Inst. for Deaf and Blind, and 2-yr. colleges under state bd. of educ. control. Special act covers employees of U.S.S. Alabama Battleship Comm. and authorizes excess medical care benefits not to exceed $10,000 per employee, also, for employees of Department of Agriculture and Industries. Special act covers employees of Tannehill Furnace and Foundry Commission.

Colo. *Part-time is equal to less than 40 hours per week.

Conn. *Non-members of a civil preparedness force and volunteer firemen who are requested by a municipality to aid in an emergency situation are covered under the workers compensation laws of the municipality where the injury occurs, and under the laws where their company is located respectively.

Guam *Employment in trade, occupation, or profession, carried on by employer for pecuniary gain.

Hawaii *Employment in trade, occupation, or profession, carried on by employer for pecuniary gain.

Ill. *Townships may elect coverage for participants in job training or work program.
The law is "elective" as to private employments of a non-hazardous nature, but it does not abrogate the employer's defenses if he does not accept the act, and thus is considered to be voluntary.

Ind. *Elective for officer of a charitable, religious, educational, or nonprofit corporation.

Compulsory for charitable organizations employing workers.

NOTE: State courts vary in decisions whether minimum number of persons must be in state.

[1]Compensation laws are classified as compulsory or elective. A compulsory law requires every employer to accept the act and pay the compensation specified. An elective act is one in which the employer has the option of either accepting or rejecting the act, but if he rejects it he loses the customary common law defenses (risk assumed by employee, negligence of fellow servants, and contributory negligence). In most states workers in excepted or excluded employments may be brought under coverage of the act through voluntary action of the employer. In other states, such action of the employer must be concurred in by the employees.

[2]Applying to private employments only. The exceptions for public employments are given under "Employments Covered – Public."

Me. *Employers of six or fewer agricultural or aquacultural employees exempt if employer maintains liability insurance policy with limits of not less than $100,000 per employee and medical coverage of not less than $1,000.
Provided that broker or salesman is independent contractor and signs contract with agency indicating such.
No compensation allowed if injury or death of employee is brought about by willful intention of himself or another, or by intoxication while on duty.

Mich. *Corporate officer who is 10% shareholder of corporation with up to 10 shareholders may reject.

Minn. *Act does not apply to persons covered by Domestic Volunteer Service Act of 1973, as amended.

Mo. *Employers who do not elect coverage are liable to suit with defenses abrogated.

N.H. *If corporation adds fourth officer or has any other employees, all must be covered, including the first three.

PART 2

BENEFITS PROVIDED

Because workers compensation imposes an absolute (but limited) liability upon the employer for employee disabilities caused by the employment, the benefits payable to the injured employee attempt to cover most of the worker's economic loss. This loss includes both loss of earnings and extra expenses associated with the injury.

Specifically, the benefits provided are:

- Cash benefits, which include both impairment benefits and disability benefits. The former are paid for certain specific physical impairments, while the latter are available whenever there is an impairment and a wage loss.
- Medical benefits, which are usually provided without dollar or time limits. In the case of most workplace injuries, only medical benefits are provided since substantial impairment or wage loss is not involved.
- Rehabilitation benefits, which include both medical rehabilitation and vocational rehabilitation for those cases involving severe disabilities.

CASH BENEFITS

In considering workers compensation income or cash benefits—which replace employee loss of income or earning capacity due to occupational injury or disease—four classifications of disability are used: (1) temporary total, (2) permanent total, (3) temporary partial, and (4) permanent partial. Permanent partial is divided into "nonscheduled" and "scheduled" disabilities.

Most cases involve temporary total disability. That is, the employee—although totally disabled during the period when benefits are payable—is expected to recover and return to employment. Permanent total disability generally indicates that the employee is regarded as totally and permanently unable to perform gainful employment.

INCOME BENEFITS FOR PERMANENT AND TEMPORARY TOTAL DISABILITY: CHART VI

Income or cash benefits payable under either temporary total or permanent total disability are shown in Chart VI. For computing weekly benefit payments, a formula—expressed as a percentage of wage—is used. In most states limitations are placed on maximum and minimum benefits payable weekly; some states also limit the total number of weeks and total dollar amount of benefit eligibility. Where there is permanent total disability most states provide payments extending through the employee's lifetime.

For either temporary total or permanent total disability the wage-replacement percentage in each jurisdiction is the same. However, in permanent total disability cases the time limits tend to be longer and the total dollar amounts higher than in cases of temporary total disability. Some states provide additional amounts for dependents and other benefits. Allowances for dependents are charted as a range in the Maximum Weekly Payment and Notations columns.

PARTIAL DISABILITY

Most awards and the preponderance of dollars paid out as income benefits are either for temporary total or permanent partial disability. As partial disabilities involve current earnings or wage-earning ability, in many states weekly benefit payments for temporary or permanent partial disabilities of the "non-scheduled" type are based on a wage-loss replacement percentage. The percentage applies to the difference between wages earned before and after injury. In some states "non-scheduled" permanent partial disabilities are compensated as a percentage of the total disability cases.

INCOME BENEFITS FOR SCHEDULED INJURIES: CHART VII

Chart VII indicates maximum amounts payable in cases of "scheduled" injuries. Listed by law, these injuries involve loss—or loss of use of—specific body members, where wage loss based on nature of impairment is presumed. In most jurisdictions the actual amount payable is a specific number of weeks of benefits (based on the member involved) multiplied by the weekly benefit amount (based on earnings at time of injury).

The chart also indicates whether the "scheduled" award is in addition to any payment otherwise payable to the employee while he may be temporarily totally disabled (healing period). Some states limit the amount payable for such periods of temporary total disability.

The Canadian statutes do not provide schedules of specific injuries. Cases are decided individually using medical impairment ratings as guidelines.

SURVIVOR BENEFITS FOR FATAL INJURIES: CHART VIII

Benefits payable in the event of fatal injuries—comprising more than 14 percent of all total income benefits—are shown in Chart VIII. The benefits provided include a burial allowance as well as a proportion of the worker's former weekly wages.

Although death is the ultimate work-related tragedy, the economic loss associated with death cases is often less than that of a permanent total disability. Because of these considerations, death benefits are generally paid to the spouse until remarriage and to the children until a specified age. In addition, some laws provide a maximum benefit total expressed as a maximum period for the payment of benefits. Figures for one child only reflect compensation if sole survivor.

MEDICAL BENEFITS, WAITING PERIOD: CHART IX

Medical Benefits—amounting to about 30 percent of all workers compensation benefits paid—are shown in Chart IX. In most instances unlimited medical benefits are provided either specifically by statute or by administrative discretion.

Choice of Physician--Practices vary with respect to choice of attending physician. States are divided nearly evenly between those that give this decision to the employer or the employee. In some states selection must be made from an approved list. The employer normally has the right to have his own physician conduct an examination.

Waiting Periods—Statutes provide that a waiting period must elapse during which income benefits are not payable. This waiting period affects only compensation; medical and hospital care are provided immediately. If disability continues for a certain number of days or weeks, most laws provide for payment of income benefits retroactive to the date of injury. Statutory provisions for waiting periods are summarized in Chart IX.

REHABILITATION BENEFITS: CHART X

Mutual interests of disabled employees and employers generally favor starting rehabilitation as soon as possible. Although rehabilitation is considered an integral part of complete medical treatment, its uses may extend beyond this (for example, where it includes vocational rehabilitation and retraining).

Specific rehabilitation provisions now in workers compensation laws are outlined in Chart X. However, rehabilitation is provided in all states even if unspecified in the law. Maintenance allowance amounts and special fund sources to finance rehabilitation also are indicated.

Insurance carriers and many employers having medical departments are leaders in carrying on rehabilitation for the industrially injured. Likewise, many major industries have comprehensive programs for employment of the physically handicapped. Smaller industries maintain modified programs for placement of disabled individuals in congenial tasks. All of these private programs help employees and employers alike.

The Federal Vocational Rehabilitation Act is now effective in all states; it includes federal funds to aid states in vocational rehabilitation of the industrially disabled.

NOTE—Amounts in chart reflect maximum potential entitlement. In Canada, permanent physical impairments generally are compensated by degree of disability using medical rating schedules as guidelines.
Numbers in italics are computations for loss of major member, loss of leg precluding use of artificial limb, or loss of eye by enucleation.

Ala. Maximum weekly PP benefit is lesser of $220 or 100% SAWW.

Alaska *Compensation is $135,000 multiplied by the employee's percentage of permanent impairment based on the AMA Guide to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

Am. Samoa *Arm—312; hand—244; thumb—75; first finger—46; second finger—30; third finger—25; fourth finger—15; leg—288; foot—205; great toe—30; other toes—16; one eye—160; one ear—52; both ears—200.

Ariz. *PP benefit is 55% of maximum monthly compensation.

Ark. *PP benefit is 66-⅔% of employee's average weekly wage up to a maximum of $154.00, except if total disability rate is $205.35 or more; maximum PP rate then is 75% of maximum total disability rate ($173.53 effective 1/1/91).

Calif. *Maximum PP benefit is $140.00, effective 1/1/84. Duration varies according to percentage of permanent disability, adjusted for age and occupation. Chart reflects standard rating for individual age 39 and loss of major arm.
Chart reflects benefits for loss of eye if unable to wear artificial eye. Life pension up to $64.21 weekly also payable for loss of arm or leg.

Colo. *Maximum weekly benefit is $150. The weekly rate for a "working unit" award is $120; maximum award is $37,580.

Conn. *Commission may award additional benefits based on loss of earnings. Minimum weekly benefit is $50.00.

Fla. *Permanent impairment caused by amputation, loss of 80% of vision in either eye after correction, or serious facial disfigurement—$250 per 1% of disability up to 10%, and $500 per 1% of disability over 10%. Wage-loss benefits also payable in all permanent impairment cases—80% of difference between 80% of pre-injury wages and earnings after maximum medical improvement, up to 100% of SAWW weekly; Social Security retirement benefits are deducted from wage loss benefits.

Hawaii *In cases in which the disability is determined as a percentage of total loss or impairment of physical or mental function of the whole man, the maximum compensation is the corresponding percentage of 312 times 100% SAWW ($128,544 effective 1/1/91).

Idaho *Maximum weekly PP benefit is 55% of SAWW for year in which injury occurred ($189.20 for 1991).

Ill. *Effective January 15. Figures reflect benefits for amputation of member—maximum 133-1/3% of SAWW ($630.65 effective 1/15/91). For other PP benefits, wage replacement rate is 60% and maximum is $340.37.

Ind. *Payable for 78 weeks; maximum weekly PP benefit is $120.
Second toe—$3,600; third toe—$2,400; fourth toe—$1,800; fifth toe—$1,200.

Iowa *Maximum weekly PP benefit is 184% of SAWW (= $647).

Kan. *Additional healing period up to 15 weeks may be allowed. Maximum weekly PP benefit is 75% of SAWW.

Ky. *Maximum weekly PP benefit is 75% of SAWW. Degree of disability is determined by American Medical Association Guide or decrease in earning capacity, whichever is greater.
Since 1980, an employee sustaining work-related hearing loss is entitled to either functional loss to the body as a whole or occupational disability, whichever is greater. Hearing loss claims receive same treatment as occupational diseases and injuries, with a final determination by the Board as to degree of disability.

La. *Schedule applies to amputation or disability greater than 25%. Supplemental earnings benefits equal 66-2/3% of the difference between AWW (4 weeks prior to injury) and post-injury earnings subject to the maximum earned while disabled. Supplemental earnings benefits are available to those who earn less than 90% of pre-injury wages; maximum 520 weeks; cease 2 years after termination of temporary total disability (unless paid for 13 consecutive weeks during that time) or upon retirement or receipt of Social Security retirement benefits.
Permanent hearing loss due to single traumatic accident.

Maine Compensation is based on AMA Guide to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment, first, second, or third edition; or The American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeon's Manual for Orthopaedic Surgeons in Evaluating Permanent Physical Impairment.

Md. *Maximum weekly PP benefit is $82.50 where benefits are payable for less than 75 weeks; 33-1/3% of SAWW ($151) where benefits are payable for 75 weeks but less than 250 weeks; and 75% SAWW ($339) where benefits are payable for 250 weeks or more.

Mass. *Maximum PP benefit is 130% of SAWW (= $490.57). Proportional benefits for partial loss of limbs (fingers, toes).

Mich. *Wage-loss benefits payable for life.
Hearing loss compensable based on lost earnings.

Minn. *For permanent partial disability, impairment compensation (IC) is paid in lump sum if take job. If no job offer made, economic recovery compensation (ER) is paid weekly. IC equals scheduled dollar amount ($75,000 to $400,000) times percent whole body disability. ER equals percent disability times scheduled number of weeks (600 to 1200 weeks) times weekly TT rate. Concurrent payment of PPD and temporary benefits allowed in certain situations.

Mo. *Maximum weekly PP benefit is 50% of SAWW (52% on 8/28/91, 55% on 8/28/92) ($198.75 effective 8/28/90); minimum is $40. If amputation or 100% loss of use, additional 10% compensation.
Occupational hearing loss law provides benefits up to 40 weeks (1 ear) or 148 weeks (both ears).

Mont. *For injuries on or after 7/1/87, benefits are paid according to degree of impairment and a wage supplement rate, which is 2/3 of the difference between wages actually received at time of injury and wage worker is qualified to earn in a local or state-wide job pool. The maximum partial disability benefit is 50% SAWW and terminates on receipt of or eligibility for Social Security retirement.

Neb. *Terms run consecutively for loss of, or loss of use of, more than 1 member but less than total disability.
Permanent total loss of hearing is compensated as permanent total disability.

Nev. *Each 1% of impairment is compensated by 6% of worker's monthly wage up to maximum, payable for 5 years or until age 70, whichever is later. Maximum monthly wages are $2,624.82 as of 7/1/90. For disability rating of 25% or less, claimant may elect payment in lump sum.

N.H. *Injury to spinal cord and spinal column is compensable for up to 350 weeks if there is a loss of upper or lower extremities. Maximum weekly payment is $619.50, effective 7/1/90.

N.J. *Computations include allowance for amputation of member (30% additional compensation). Compensation is payable weekly at 70% of pre-injury weekly wages, up to a maximum of 55% of SAWW for arm or leg, 45% of SAWW for hand, 40% of SAWW for foot or one eye, 35% of SAWW for hearing—both ears, 20% of SAWW for other scheduled injuries in chart.

N.Y. *Additional weeks for TT in excess of statutory healing period; maximum $280 as of 7/1/90. Compensation for wage-loss in addition to schedule if impairment due to loss of 50% or more of member.

N.C. *For unscheduled injuries, maximum compensation not to exceed $20,000.

N.D. *PP impairment benefit is 33-1/3% of SAWW ($107.00 effective 7/1/90) for a scheduled number of weeks; law provides an additional award of 25% for master extremity loss.

Ohio *Maximum weekly PP benefit is 100% of SAWW (= $428 for 1991). Compensation payable for 200 weeks if percentage of disability is 90% or greater.

Okla. *Maximum PP benefit is 50% of SAWW (= $185.00 effective 11/1/90 - 10/30/93).

Ore. *Calculated at $305 per degree for scheduled injury; $100 per degree for unscheduled injury with a maximum of 320 degrees.

Pa. *Healing period is 25 weeks for leg or foot; 20 weeks for an arm or hand; 12 weeks for great toe; 10 weeks for thumb, eye, or hearing; 6 weeks for finger or toe.

P.R. *Maximum PP benefit is $65 weekly. Maximum amount for PPD is $12,000.
Permanent visual disability is compensated according to percentage of total disability; in addition, loss of eye by enucleation, evisceration or extreme atrophy is compensated at an additional 10% of permanent total disability.

R.I. *Maximum scheduled PP benefit is $90.00 weekly. Maximum is 100% of SAWW for unscheduled injury.

Texas *PP maximum is 70% of SAWW ($300, effective 1/1/91).

Utah *Maximum per week, including allowance for dependents, is 66-2/3% of SAWW (= $243 effective 7/1/90).
Entry presumes total loss of hearing in one ear and no loss of hearing in the other (16-2/3 weeks).

Vt. *In addition to TT except for loss of hearing in 1 ear.

Va. *Benefits for scheduled injuries are payable in addition to compensation for temporary disability. County of Spotsylvania v. Hart, 218 Va. 565, 238 S.E.2d 813 (1977). TTD payments continue until claimant is released to return to work at which time award for specific disability may be entered and paid simultaneously with payment for temporary partial benefits.

V.I. *PP benefit is 66-2/3% of SAWW weekly (= $256.00 effective 1/1/91).
For loss of two or more digits or one or more phalanges of two or more digits on a hand or foot, benefits may be proportioned to the loss of use of the hand or foot.

Wash. *Benefits fixed at amount reflected in chart.

W.Va. *Maximum weekly benefit is 66-2/3% SAWW (= $250.96 effective 7/1/90).

Wis. *Maximum weekly PP benefit is $137 effective 1/1/91.
Second toe and other toes—$2,740.
Under occupational hearing loss law, maximum is $4,932/36 weeks for one ear and $29,592/216 weeks for both ears, as of 1/1/91.

Wyo. *PP benefit is 66-2/3% of SAMW for specified months according to degree of impairment (= $1,115.17 effective 1/1/91 - 3/31/91).

F.E.C.A. *Includes allowance for dependents. Maximum weekly benefit is $1,155.84, effective 1/13/91.

[1] If disability continues for longer than stated periods, compensation is paid for the waiting period. Waiting periods do not apply to medical care, which is furnished from the first day of injury.

[2] Information supplied by Division of State Workers' Compensation Programs, U.S. Department of Labor.

[3] Many states have introduced medical fee schedules to control payments made to providers for medical care under the workers' compensation programs. Medical benefits remain "unlimited" in those states indicated, but employers and insurers are only liable for the amounts set forth in the medical fee schedule. Employees cannot be held accountable for any amount charged above and beyond the medical fee schedule.

Ala. *Temporary disability only.
Employee can select second physician from a panel selected by employer. Employer or employee may select initial physician for physical rehabilitation.

Ark. *Employer liability may cease 6 months after injury where no time is lost from work, or 6 months after claimant returns to work, or maximum of $10,000 has been paid unless the employer waives rights or the Commission extends time and dollar limits.

Calif. *Waiting period also terminated by hospitalization.
Psychologists included within definition of physician and treatment permitted. Personal chiropractor allowed if employee has previously notified employer that chiropractic treatments were being rendered.

Colo. *Director maintains a list of physicians who serve as a medical review panel and that will perform independent medical exams upon any request by a party to a workers' compensation proceeding.

Conn. *By court decision. Olmstead v. Lamphier, 93 Conn. 20, 104 A. 488 (1918).

Del. *No waiting period if incapacity results in hospitalization or is caused by amputation of member.

Fla. *Peer group of health care providers reviews cases where medical expenses exceed $20,000 to see if care was appropriate and reasonable. Expenses subject to a medical fee schedule.

Ga. *Included in total amount allowed for medical care.

Idaho *Waiting period also terminated by hospitalization.

Ill. *Temporary total disability only.

Iowa *No waiting period for permanent partial disability.

Kan. *Employee may consult a physician of his own choice at any time but employer is only liable for fees and charges up to $350.
Director must adopt rules which establish a maximum medical fee schedule, subject to approval of an advisory panel. Fee schedule to be reviewed annually.

Maine *Firemen are exempt from waiting period and receive compensation from date of disability.

PART 3
ADMINISTRATION

Because workers compensation grew out of a public dissatisfaction with the manner in which job-related disabilities were handled, it is not surprising that the system was designed with an eye toward prompt and effective disposition of disability cases. Without an effective delivery system, many of the problems associated with the common law and employer liability statutes would remain.

This requirement for an effective delivery system remains valid today. Indeed the National Commission on State Workmen's Compensation Laws, in listing this as a major objective for a modern workers' compensation system, made special note that the achievement of the system's objectives for protecting against workplace disabilities was dependent upon an effective system for delivery of the benefits and services. This observation was reaffirmed by a second federal report on workers' compensation delivery in 1977 which emphasized the importance of efficient program administration.

As originally envisioned, the system would be self-administering. Over time, the complexities of the system proved too much for a laissez-faire approach, and states moved to take a more affirmative role in the administration of their laws.

Generally, the states have moved either to administer their laws through their court system, a special commission or board, or a combination of both. In Canada, administrative activities are carried out by a board. The principal areas of administration include—

- Supervision of compliance with statutory requirements for employers, employees, carriers, and medical and legal personnel.
- Investigation and decision on disputed claims and the supervision of medical and vocational rehabilitation.
- Management of second injury funds, special assessment requirements.
- Collection of data and evaluation of program performance.

ADMINISTRATION—NOTICE TO EMPLOYER—CLAIMS: CHART XI

Workers compensation laws generally are administered by commissions or boards created by law. A few states provide for court administration.

Chart XI shows statutory provisions relating to administration. These include (1) time limits in which employers must be advised of injury, (2) time in which claims must be filed, (3) claims settlement conditions, and (4) regulation of attorney fees.

EMPLOYER'S REPORT OF ACCIDENTS: CHART XII

All employers are interested in requirements legally imposed on them to report injuries, and the penalty—if any—imposed for failure to report. In many jurisdictions, except for preliminary reports, the insured's company relieves an employer of this burden. Provisions for employers' reports of accidents are summarized in Chart XII.

SECOND-INJURY FUNDS: CHART XIII

Second-injury funds (or like arrangements) were developed to meet problems arising when a pre-existing injury combines with a second to produce disability greater than that caused by the latter alone. The funds (1) encourage hiring of the physically handicapped and (2) more equitably allocate costs of providing benefits to such employees. Second-injury employers pay compensation related primarily to the disability caused by the second injury alone—even though the employee receives a benefit relating to his combined disability; the difference is made up from a second-injury fund.

Where no special second-injury fund is provided by law, an employer in whose employ a second injury is sustained usually is liable for compensation due for the total resulting disability. Because of the potential increased cost of compensation benefits, an employer thus may be influenced to refuse employment to handicapped persons. It is for this reason that second-injury funds are advocated.

Most compensation laws now limit employer liability in second-injury cases to payment for the disability resulting from the second injury considered by itself—as shown in Chart XIII. The chart indicates the nature of the injury covered, portion payable by the employer and by the fund, and the sources of the fund.

ADMINISTRATION EXPENSES: CHART XIV

Chart XIV refers to (1) how costs of administration are met; (2) nature of assessments, if any; and (3) type of insurance provided for—whether private or state or both.

APPEAL PROVISIONS: CHART XV

Appeal provisions—including designation of the court of appeal and nature of the procedures—are summarized in Chart XV. Most Canadian jurisdictions use the inquiry system and do not provide for judicial appeals.

DIRECTORY: CHART XVI

The names and addresses of the administrators, boards, and commissioners for all jurisdictions reported upon by the Analysis are furnished.

NOTE—Other Canadian jurisdictions do not provide for judicial appeal.

*Generally courts may set aside an award on one of the following grounds: (1) that the Commission acted in excess of its powers, (2) that the award was procured by fraud, (3) that the facts found by the Commission did not support the award, and (4) that there was not sufficient competent evidence in the record to warrant the finding.

†Board may request opinion on question of law or jurisdiction on its own motion.

‡Court has power to pass only upon question of law or jurisdiction of the Board.

Conn. *Claimant may appeal commissioner's decision to Compensation Review Division (panel of 3 commissioners), then to appellate session of Superior Court.
Division may certify question of law on its own motion.

Hawaii *Appellate Board may certify questions of law to Supreme Court.

Ill. *Workers' compensation appeals panel of court may decide case or refer to full court.

Ind. *Board may also certify questions of law on its own motion.

Kan. *If court fails to appeal within 60 days, Director must request decision; if no decision is issued within 30 days after request, Director must advise Supreme Court.

La. *If any compensation under a final, non-appealable judgment is not paid within 30 days, 24% interest will be added to the compensation.
60 days for devolutive appeal.

Maine *First level of appeal is Appellate Division. Denial of review by Law Court is final. No appeal from decree based on memorandum of agreement. Appeal does not stay payment of compensation. Effective 6/30/91, no appeal is allowed upon questions of fact found by the commissioner except to correct manifest error or injustice.

Mich. *Workers' Compensation Appeals Board has primary responsibility for any appeals filed prior to 3/31/86. It will be abolished as of July 1, 1991. If at that time any cases remain, a 5 member workers' compensation appeal board will be created. Workers' Compensation Appellate Commission has jurisdiction over all other cases.

Minn. *Disputed WCD conference determination is heard de novo at OAH.

Mo. *Administrative Law Judge's award may be appealed to Industrial Commission.

Mont. *Varies depending upon reason for appeal.

Neb. *The Court is constituted the same as the boards and commissions in other states.

COMPUTATIONS—MONTHLY TO WEEKLY

All benefits payable other than on a weekly basis have been converted to an equivalent weekly rate. There are several methods of conversion in use, which may cause slight differences in result. This Analysis attempts to follow the practice of the jurisdiction wherever possible.

1. A method widely used in Canada is to multiply the monthly benefit by 12, divide by 365, and multiply the result by 7. Example for a monthly benefit of $750:

$$\frac{750 \times 12 \times 7}{365} = $172.60$$

2. A second method is to multiply the monthly benefit by 12 and divide by 52. Example:

$$\frac{750 \times 12}{52} = $173.08$$

3. The third method is to divide the monthly benefit by 4.3 or a similar figure because the average month contains 4.33 weeks. Example:

$$\frac{750}{4.3} = $174.42$$

WORKERS COMPENSATION LAWS

About the Supplement

The Annual Supplement to the Analysis of Workers Compensation Laws, 1991 edition is current as of July 1, 1991. The Annual Supplement concentrates on three major topics. First, it serves to keep you informed of what has been enacted by the state legislatures since January 1. Second, it also tells you about important pending legislation and other bills that were introduced, helping to keep you prepared for what is to come. Third, it keeps you up-to-date on the latest benefit changes.

Finally, in Around the States, not every state appears. This is merely a reflection that the state has not passed any workers' compensation measures pertaining to the book. It also may indicate that a state is not meeting during 1991.

Around the States

Alabama

The state of Alabama continues to meet during 1991. They are considering a number of workers' compensation measures. One would allow an employee to choose any second physician. Currently, the employee would be given a list of four physicians from which to choose. Another measure would create a requirement that every insurer offer optional policy deductibles. The deductibles would be allowed in amounts of $100, $200, $300, $400, $500, or increments of $500, up to a maximum of $2,500 per claim.

Alabama is also considering H. 587, a major reform bill. The bill attempts to reform a troubled system. H. 587 would:

• Change coverage exclusion for 3 or fewer employees to none.

• Allow coverage of certified volunteer fire departments and rescue squads as approved by the Alabama Forestry Commission. Wages would be 66-2/3% AWW or 66-2/3% of minimum wage, whichever is greater.

• Increase penalties on failure to insure from a minimum of $25 to $100, and for delaying payments from 10% to 15% of award if not paid within 30 days.

• Make general contractors liable for workers' compensation coverage for uninsured subcontractors.

• Increase burial expenses from $1,000 to $3,000.

• Impose an additional funding mechanism for the Second Injury Fund against all carriers, self-insureds, and group funds. They would be required to make payments to the fund equal to that proportion of 175% of total disbursements from the fund during the previous fiscal year, less any fund balance over $500,000 at the end of the previous year. A 10% penalty would be imposed for not paying.

• Require the use the American Medical Association Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

• Change the appeal of the Director's decision from de novo with a jury trial, if requested, to being heard before a designated administrative law judge.

• Require that all actions for injury or occupational disease not filed within 2 years after the accident or last exposure would be forever barred. If death occurs within 3 years after the accident or last exposure, actions not filed within 2 years would be forever barred.

Arizona

The Arizona legislature adjourned without making any changes to their workers' compensation law. They did consider, however, the following subjects:

• In the event of a work-related death, this bill would award a spouse, if there are no children, 66-2/3% AWW until death or remarriage and would give 2 years compensation upon remarriage.

• An employer would be liable for actual damages if an employee is wrongfully discharged if:

1. he pursues a workers' compensation claim.
2. provides support of another's workers' compensation claim.
3. refuses to obtain care for a work-injury from a doctor designated by the employer if the employer is not entitled to provide workers' compensation medical care.

• An increase in the minimum weekly benefit to $75.00. If the AWW is less, then 100% of AWW.

• A change in the waiting period for compensation from 7 days to 3 days.

California

The California legislature continues to meet during 1991. Here are some of the measures they are considering:

• Would allow an employee to sue for damages for employer negligence where the negligence is the primary cause of perinatal injury.

• Would allow an employee to sue for damages if an employer concealed a workplace hazard and injury results from that hazard.

• Would increase the limitation on costs and expenses from $250 to $5,000 in cases where the employee is injured as a result of an employer's serious and wilful misconduct.

Colorado

The Colorado legislature has met and convened a special session to address workers' compensation reform. Only June 14, they passed S. 218 in an attempt to straighten out their workers' compensation system. Major provisions of the reform law include:

• The Division of Labor is renamed the Division of Workers' Compensation.

• By January 1, 1992, the Director must promulgate medical treatment guidelines for every injury and occupational disease, and for impairment ratings by using the American Medical Association Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

- Increases burial expenses from $2,000 to $4,000.
- At maximum medical improvement, the injured worker is examined and rated for impairment using the American Medical Association guidelines. Impairment benefits are calculated by multiplying the impairment rating by his age factor and 400 weeks, calculated at the TT rate. The first $10,000 may be paid in a lump sum upon request, and the balance is paid at a rate of at least $150 per week, but at no more than 50% SAWW.
- Increases the lump sum payment for permanent total disability and permanent partial disability, computed at a 4% discount, from $26,292 to $37,500.
- Gives the Court of Appeals original jurisdiction to hear appeals from the Industrial Claim Appeals Panel by writ of certiorari.
- For injuries occurring on or after July 1, 1991, compensation awards are increased by 2% every July 1. Compensation payments cease when the employee turns age 65.

Other workers' compensation amendments include:

- Workers in job training programs sponsored by state or local government agencies and put in a company where there is workers' compensation insurance, are covered by that employing company's insurance.
- Sets a limit of 20% on contingency fees for unappealed contested claims and denies attorney's fees based on medical benefits.
- Allows an officer of a closely held corporation to appear before the Commission, provided that the amount at issue does not exceed $10,000.

Connecticut

The Connecticut legislature has been meeting in special session to finalize their budget. During the regular session, they passed an amendment to the workers' compensation law to prohibit compensation in cases where a work-related injury or death was caused by drug or alcohol use. Also, the name of the Second Injury and Assurance Fund is changed to the Second Injury Fund. In addition, other bills were considered. The major subjects addressed were:

- An employee would be required to submit to an exam by a doctor of the employer's choice from a commission-approved list. Employee's physician could also be present at the employee's expense.
- Would impose a maximum of 5% of total compensation and payments for workers' compensation administration, rehabilitation, educational expenses on each employer. Amount would be determined by the Chairman annually on July 1.

H. 7339, a mostly administrative reform bill, was considered and amended by the legislature. Included among its major provisions include:

- Would create a Compensation Review Board that would review appeals of Commissioners' decisions.
- Would allow the Chairman to hear appeals brought before the Compensation Review Board.
- Would allow employers or insurers to establish a managed medical care plan for any work-related injury or illness, subject to approval by the Chairman.
- Would increase the compensation for total disability and scheduled injuries from 66-2/3% of the AWW to 80% of AWW.
- Would allow a Commissioner to award additional compensation, up to 80% of the AWW, within one year of the injury.

Delaware

The Delaware legislature continues to meet during 1991. To date, they have considered a number of workers' compensation measures. An amendment to decrease the employer's and insurer's premium tax passed. They will now pay 2% of premiums rather than 3%. Other measures under consideration include:

- Employees would be able to bring a tort action because of injury that was caused by employer acts that were known to be likely to cause injury. Employer could not receive any reimbursement if the employee recovers damages.

- Would require employers to provide rehabilitation services during the period of disability.

District of Columbia

The District of Columbia Council meets regularly all year long. In late 1990, they passed a workers' compensation reform bill that took effect earlier this year. Major provisions include:

- Allows chiropractors to treat workers' compensation injuries.
- Requires that employer-provided health insurance continue while eligibility for workers' compensation benefits continues, up to 52 weeks. Employer pays employee's share while the employee is collecting workers' compensation benefits.
- Increases the disfigurement benefits for neck, face, head and other exposed areas from $3,500 to $7,500.
- Increases burial expenses from $1,000 to $5,000.
- For failure to pay a workers' compensation claim a fine of $1,000 - $10,000, but no imprisonment.
- Benefits are determined by taking 66-2/3% AWW. (Was the lesser of 66-2/3% or 80% of net wages.)

Florida

Florida met in special session to address a court decision stating that its 1990 workers' compensation reform law was unconstitutional. The new law is substantially the same as passed last year except for:

- Sole proprietors, partners and corporate officers in the construction industry are allowed an exemption from workers' compensation coverage.
- The economic development provisions were deleted because of the single subject rule as required by Florida law.
- The Industrial Relations Commission, Governor's Workers' Compensation Oversight Board and Public Counsel were abolished.

In a companion bill, it was enacted that partnerships and corporations in the construction industry, up to 3 officers or partners, may elect exemption. Other amendments include:

- Workers' compensation deputy commissioners are renamed judges of compensation claims.
- The Industrial Relations Commission's functions are now assigned to the District Court of Appeal, First District.

Florida also passed a measure, effective on January 1, requiring employee-leasing companies to provide workers' compensation coverage for their employees.

Georgia

The Georgia legislature adjourned in March after having considered and passed a number of workers' compensation measures. Among the amendments to the law include:

- A claim is deemed filed on the earlier of the date such claim was received by the board or its postmark date, provided that it was sent certified or registered mail.
- Extends coverage to Emergency Management Rescue Specialists under the same category as police officers and firefighters.
- Creates a separate classification for filing a claim for employees with mesothelioma or asbestosis. Such employees have 1 year from the date of first disablement after diagnosis to file a claim. (For other diseases, must file within 1 year of when known or should have known; or within 7 years of last exposure.)
- An owner-operator that leases equipment with a driver to a carrier is considered an independent contractor.

Although it did not pass during 1991, expect H. 1082 back in 1992. Until the 1992 session convenes, the merits of such reform will continue to be considered. Among the topics to expect are:

- "In the course of employment" would not include transportation to and from the place of employment, except under certain circumstances.
- The definition of injury for heart disease, heart attack, failure of coronary blood vessels, thrombosis would not be considered injuries unless there is a preponderance of evidence to suggest that they were caused by "one specific traumatic" event in employment.

- Would exclude employers only from third party actions and create a right of subrogation for employers.
- All attorney's fees would be subject to approval of an administrative law judge. Would cap fee at 20% of the first $25,000, 15% of the next $10,000 and 5% of the remainder of recovery.
- Would reduce an employer's liability for lifetime medical care to 500 weeks.
- An employer's failure to comply with any statute would cause benefits to increase 15%, up to $15,000. If the employee does not use a safety device as required, disobeys any reasonable rule, or because of intoxication, compensation and death benefits reduced by 15%, up to $15,000. (Note: Currently, no compensation is payable for employee's wilful misconduct, alcohol or substance abuse, or failure to use a safety device.)
- For a "catastrophic" injury, the designation of supplier and rehabilitation benefits would be made within 48 hours. Would be voluntary in "non-catastrophic" cases.
- Would increase temporary total benefits from $225 to $275. Temporary partial benefits would increase from $117 to $150, but the benefit period would decrease from 350 weeks to 300 weeks.
- Would reimburse the employer/insurer for weekly income benefits for subsequent injury compensation after 26 weeks. (Currently after 104 weeks.)

Hawaii

The Hawaii legislature adjourned during May. While there was not much workers' compensation activity, one amendment is worth mentioning. In cases of work-related death, if there are no dependents, the deceased's parents receive 25% of 312 times the SAWW. If there are no surviving parents, the employer pays an equal amount into the special compensation fund.

Illinois

The Illinois legislature has been meeting in special session since May 23. It has been considering the following subjects this year:

- TT payments could not be terminated unless the employee's treating physician has released from care and authorized the patient to return to work. If payments stop because of another physician's report, or if the employer does not let the employee see the physician of his choice, the employee could get a $1,000 penalty award through an expedited hearing process.
- Medical reports would be confidential and would be available only to the employee, employer and Industrial Commission. Would limit medical reports only to those who have an interest to the injury in question.

Indiana

The Indiana legislature adjourned in May after passing major workers' compensation reform legislation. The major changes are:

- The Board may create a list of independent medical examiners and may order physical examinations.
- Scheduled injuries are now payable for 125 weeks maximum, up from 78 weeks, at a rate of 66-2/3% AWW, up from 60% AWW.
- Changes scheduled injury compensation from a week-based system to a degree-based system. The following are the new categories:

  Thumb - 12 degrees
  1st Finger - 8 degrees
  2nd Finger - 7 degrees
  3rd Finger - 6 degrees
  4th Finger - 4 degrees
  Hand - 40 degrees
  Arm - 50 degrees
  Big Toe - 12 degrees
  2nd Toe - 6 degrees
  3rd Toe - 4 degrees
  4th Toe - 3 degrees
  5th Toe - 2 degrees
  Foot - 35 degrees
  Leg - 45 degrees
  One Eye - 35 degrees
  One Ear - 15 degrees
  Both Ears - 40 degrees

- During the period 7/1/91 - 6/30/92, the following compensation will be paid for scheduled injuries:

Degrees	Payment
1 - 35	$500/degree
36 - 50	$900/degree
> 50	$1,500/degree

- The SAWW beginning: July 1, 1991 - $492; July 1, 1992 - $540; July 1, 1993 - $591; and July 1, 1994 - $642.
- The minimum weekly payment for disability will remain $75.00 during that period.
- The total amount paid for injuries occurring after July 1, 1991 will be $164,000; after July 1, 1992 will be $180,000; after July 1, 1993 will be $197,000; and after July 1, 1994 will be $214,000.
- The minimum balance for the Second Injury Fund must be $500,000. If below, 1% of all workers' compensation payments will be paid into fund.
- Burial expenses increase from $4,000 to $6,000.
- Authorizes optional deductibles for insurance policies in multiples of $500, up to $5,000.

In addition to passing the reform bill, the Indiana legislature considered the following issues:

- Would require attorney's fees be paid in addition to award. Also would increase amount of interest paid on award from 3% to 8%.
- There were two measures introduced addressing the choice of physician. One would allow employees to select their own doctor from a list of physicians approved by the Board. The other would allow the employee a blanket choice. Currently, the employer chooses the physician.
- Would allow chiropractic treatment for workers' compensation.

Iowa

The Iowa legislature adjourned in May. They passed a law that enables motor carriers, hiring an owner-operator, to procure workers' compensation coverage for the owner-operator and pass that cost on to the owner-operator. The motor carrier does not have to provide workers' compensation coverage for the owner-operator. The following subjects were also considered:

- Would limit attorney's fees to one third of the first $3,000 and one quarter of the next $27,000 of award.
- Would reduce the maximum benefit level to 100% SAWW.

Kansas

The Kansas legislature has adjourned. While a number of workers' compensation measures were introduced, only one passed. The new law allows optional deductibles in workers' compensation insurance policies.

Louisiana

The Louisiana legislature convened in April and continues to meet. They have passed a few workers' compensation measures. They passed a law stating that reservists receiving supplemental benefits, who are called to active duty, may suspend those benefits. Upon return to civilian life, the same benefits are restored upon request. They also passed a bill stating that members of professional associations or businesses of a similar nature may self-insure their common liabilities. A number of bills also have been introduced for consideration. They address the following subjects:

- Would terminate supplemental earnings benefits when an employee begins receiving retirement benefits from the job in which the injury arose, receives Social Security benefits or reaches age 65. The law currently states that benefits terminate when Social Security benefits begin.
- Would give an employee a civil remedy against the principal contractor (unless the principal has paid benefits because the employer did not) if an injury was caused by the principal's gross negligence. (Currently workers' compensation is the only remedy against the employer or principal by employees of subcontractors.)
- If a death is caused by the employer's gross negligence, employer's immunity from civil liability would not apply. (Currently, exclusive remedy is in workers' compensation.)
- Would provide discounts on workers'

compensation premiums for employers who implement safety programs.

Maine

The Maine legislature continues to meet during 1991 in an extended session. The Maine legislature is expected to reform the workers' compensation law this year. To date, there have been a number of workers' compensation measures introduced. These measures:

- Would allow an injured worker whose injury was caused by employer's violation of any federal or state occupational safety law to sue for damages, in addition to collecting workers' compensation benefits.
- Would increase burial expenses from $4,000 to $10,000. Incidental compensation would increase from $3,000 to $5,000.
- Would create the "Safety Pays" program, and would be optional for any insured employer. If upon review and inspection, a workplace meets the standards set forth, and during that policy year remains safe, at the end of that policy year, 10% of the premiums paid for workers' compensation would be returned or credited to the employer.

Maryland

The Maryland legislature adjourned in April. They passed a number of amendments to the workers' compensation law. Included among these are:

- Extends the 6.5 % assessment on all awards against employers, insurers and Injured Workers' Insurance Fund for permanent disability and death, to be paid into the Subsequent Injury Fund through June 30, 1993.
- Extends workers' compensation coverage to volunteer advanced life support units.
- Extends coverage to volunteer aides in schools (e.g., student teachers and volunteer aides).
- Allows optional deductibles in workers' compensation insurance policies.

Massachusetts

The Massachusetts legislature continues to meet during 1991. Each house is considering identical versions of reform bills. Among the major provisions are:

- Would increase the notification period from 5 to 7 days for an employer to notify the Administration that an accident occurred.
- Would increase the time from 14 to 21 days for an insurer to either pay or deny a claim. If not paid, or no notification to deny is made within 21 days, the insurer would pay the employee a penalty of $950. (Currently, 2 times SAWW.)
- Would impose limits on attorney's fees in fixed dollar limits rather than as multiples of the SAWW.
- Would permit the insurer to approve an employee's subsequent choice of physician.
- If an employee refuses to participate in an approved vocational rehabilitation program, there would be a 50% reduction in workers' compensation benefits and ineligibility for PT benefits.
- Would decrease the annual cost of living adjustment from 10% to 5%.
- Would decrease the length of benefits for the difference between pre-injury and post-injury earnings from 600 weeks to 300 weeks.

The Governor also has a measure that he supports. The major provisions of that bill include:

- Would increase the number of administrative law judges from 4 to 6.
- Would require any cost of living adjustment under workers' compensation paid to public employees to be offset by any money due them from their disability pensions.
- Would eliminate reporting injuries resulting in less than 5 lost work days. Employers would have to file reports within 7 calendar days (excluding Sundays & holidays). Currently, employers must report within 5 business days.
- Would establish new fines for insurers who do not pay claims promptly, or do not pay according to orders within 14 days of receipt - $200; within 45 days - $1,000; within 60 days - $2,500; within 90 days - $10,000.

WA *Based on $62.25 per day from a monthly wage of $1,866.75.
WY *Monthly benefit is fixed at 66-2/3% of the SAMW (SAMW = $1,762.15 - 7/1/91 -9/30/91) plus $100 monthly per child until age 19.
Payable for 54 months and may be extended in 12 month intervals at 33-1/3% of SAMW.

• Would require the payment of attorney's fees to reflect the work actually done. Flat dollar values would replace SAWW multiples.
• Would impose a 15% reduction in benefits if an employee refuses to attend an approved vocational rehabilitation program. Would increase rehabilitation programs from 1 to 2 years.
• Would decrease the length of TT benefits from 5 to 4 years.
• Would decrease the maximum duration of partial benefits from 600 weeks to 312 weeks. For a demonstrable major PP, could be extended for 520 weeks.
• Would cap TT and PT cost of living adjustments at the consumer price index for urban consumers in the northeast region.

Minnesota

The Minnesota legislature adjourned in May. A special session, however, may be called. During the main session, the legislature passed an amendment to the workers' compensation law that requires construction company employers bidding on projects to provide workers' compensation coverage for its employees. This law becomes effective on August 1. A number of other measures were introduced for consideration. Some of the subjects that still could be addressed in special session include:

• Would impose a 15% penalty, up to $15,000, paid to an injured worker if the employer's violation of any safety code caused the injury.

• Would create a monopolistic state fund.

A reform bill was also introduced. Its major provisions include:

• Would require workers' compensation rates to be frozen until 1/1/93.
• Would exempt family farms from workers' compensation coverage if they pay less than $20,000 in annual cash wages, and if they have liability coverage.
• Would increase the maximum benefit for TT and TP from 100% SAWW to 110% SAWW.
• Would decrease the minimum benefit for TT and TP from 50% SAWW to 20% SAWW, or the actual wage if less. TP would end after 260 weeks and eligibility would end after 450 weeks.
• Would increase burial expenses from $2,500 to $7,500.
• Would decrease the annual inflation adjustment from 6% to 4% and the adjustment would not take place until the second anniversary of the injury.
• Would impose a 15% increase in benefits, up to $15,000 if the employer does not comply with a law or order of the Department of Labor and Industry.
• Would impose a 15% decrease in benefits, up to $15,000 if the employee does not use a required safety device.
• Rehabilitation would no longer be mandatory. Would only be furnished upon employee, employer or the Commissioner's request.

Mississippi

The Mississippi legislature adjourned in May. They passed an amendment to the workers' compensation law that excludes students in training programs from workers' compensation coverage. They also considered the following subjects during the session:

• Would limit the employee's choice of physician to one physician of his choice and to those he is referred. Would authorize one change of physician if the initial doctor was the employer's choice at the time of injury.
• Would require the Commission to adopt a medical fee schedule and establish one or more medical fee advisory panels.
• Would increase the number of weeks payable for scheduled injuries.
• Would increase the vocational rehabilitation benefits from $10 per week for up to 52 weeks to a maximum of $5,000. Makes rehabilitation mandatory.
• Would increase the burial allowance from $2,000 to $5,000.

Montana

The Montana legislature adjourned in April but passed several workers' compensation amendments during that session. Among them are:

• A resolution stating that since railroad workers are covered under FELA, they should not be allowed to participate in Montana's workers' compensation system.
• Allows trustees of rural fire districts to elect to provide workers' compensation coverage for volunteer firefighters. Benefits would be based on the AWW of the usual occupation. Effective on October 1.
• Insurer only is liable to pay for generic drugs if they have equal therapeutic qualities. This does not apply if a physician specifies no substitutions, or if a generic equivalent is not available.
• Adds acupuncturists to the group of medical providers approved to treat workers' compensation cases.
• A temporary worker is defined as someone "whose services are furnished to another on a part-time or temporary basis to substitute for a permanent employee on leave, or to meet an emergency or short-term workload." An employer who uses a temporary worker is presumed to be the employer for workers' compensation premium and loss experience criteria.
• A claimant's heirs and insurer may determine the proportion of the third-party settlement to be allocated under subrogation, regardless of whether the amount of benefits and compensation have been determined under workers' compensation.
• The cap of $2,500 on deductibles has been lifted. Deductibles must be in amounts of $500 or more.
• Adds someone performing community service to the definition of employee.
• TT benefits cease if a worker returns to a position with the same employer and receives an equivalent or higher wage than what was paid at the time of injury. TT benefits can be reinstated if the position becomes unavailable and the worker continues to be temporarily disabled.

Nebraska

The Nebraska legislature adjourned in June. They considered, but did not pass the following measures:

• Would require basing workers' compensation premiums on man-hours worked in each manual rate risk classification.
• Would eliminate rehearings by the workers' compensation court. Instead, appeals would be heard by the state supreme court.
• Would allow recovery of attorney's fees and 50% damages for delinquent medical payments under workers' compensation.
• For permanent disability causing a loss of earning power of 25% or more, compensation would last for 500 weeks rather than for a period determined by the severity of the injury. Also, would increase duration of partial disability benefits to 500 weeks from 300 weeks.
• Would increase burial expenses from $2,000 to $5,000.

Nevada

The Nevada legislature adjourned in June. A number of workers' compensation were introduced and a few passed. Amendments to the workers' compensation law include:

• The Department of Industrial Relations must develop standards for medical treatment of industrial injuries. This is to be done in consultation with organized labor, employers, insurers and the medical community.
• Volunteer firefighters who are injured while performing services shall have their wages deemed to be $2,000 per month for workers' compensation purposes.
• For a subsequent injury arising out of employment, there must be a permanent physical impairment rating of 6% (was 12%) to qualify for reimbursement from the Subsequent Injury Fund.

While the following subjects did not become enacted, they were addressed. They include:

• No compensation would be payable if an injury was proximately caused by the use of a controlled substance.
• If an insurer unreasonable delays or refuses to pay a claim within 30 days, the insurer must pay 3 times the amount as originally ordered.

• Would establish a maximum annual wage of $24,000 for workers' compensation purposes.
• Would increase the penalty for failure to submit books, records and payroll for inspection from $100 to $1,000.

New Jersey

The New Jersey legislature continues to meet during 1991. To date, they have amended the workers' compensation law to include any non-profit, non-public school, college or university to the definition of employer. They are also considering the following subjects:

• Would bring sole proprietors and partners under their business's workers' compensation insurance coverage. Would give sole proprietors and partners workers' compensation benefits and would require the business to provide coverage unless the employer elects no coverage.
• Would impose simple interest paid to the injured employee on any workers' compensation payment that is delayed for 45 days following judgment or order or 10 days within any appeal of judgment or order. Currently, if after 3 months, Division of Workers' Compensation can decide whether or not to impose interest.
• Would allow the employee to choose his physician.

New York

The New York legislature continues to meet in 1991. To date, they have amended the workers' compensation law to allow any physician licensed to practice medicine in the state to treat a workers' compensation injury without approval of the chairman in an emergency situation. This becomes effective on January 1. They are also considering the following subjects:

• Would decrease from 45 days to 3 weeks, the time for which a carrier could reject a disability claim for benefits.
• Would increase the penalty for failure to pay a claim promptly from 25% to 200% of claim and from $10 to $100 per week of delinquency.
• An injured employee would be compensated for expenses of guide dogs, wheel chairs and other mobility aids for the duration of recovery. If the injury is permanent, the employer must pay for all modifications to the primary residence for necessary accommodation.
• Would impose a penalty on the employer or carrier if an award is not paid within 30 days. In addition, simple interest would be due from the date an award is made.

North Carolina

The North Carolina continues to meet during 1991. They are considering the following workers' compensation measures:

• Would increase the assessment against an employer or carrier for each minor member loss from $50 to $100; for 50% or more loss of use of each major member would increase from $200 to $500 payable to the Second Injury Fund.
• Would allow an injured employee to select his own physician one time if unsatisfied with the employer-provided physician. Other changes still would be subject to Commission approval.
• Would increase the workers' compensation premium tax from 2.5% to 2.75%. Also, a special purpose tax for Commission operating expenses would be .25%.

North Dakota

The North Dakota legislature adjourned in April. They made one major amendment to their workers' compensation law. Real estate brokers are now exempt from mandatory workers' compensation participation if their contract states that the broker is an independent contractor, is licensed and remuneration is based on sales rather than the number of hours worked.

Pennsylvania

The Pennsylvania legislature continues to meet in 1991. Thus far, they have amended their workers' compensation law to include members of hazardous materials response teams as employees of the jurisdiction for which they are performing services and therefore are entitled to workers' compensation coverage. They are also considering a measure that would require hearings to be held within 90 days of receipt of a claim. If the hearing is not held within 90 days, the claimant would receive compensation until a decision is made.

South Carolina

The South Carolina legislature adjourned in June. There is talk about a special session being called. They passed the following amendments to the workers' compensation law:

- Coverage is extended to prisoners who are serving sentences of any length (previously only covered if sentence was 90 days or longer), if elected by the governing body.
- Coverage is extended to volunteer deputy sheriffs. Their AWW is deemed to be 37.5 % of the SAWW.
- Increases OSHA penalties from $10,000 to $70,000 for an employer that knowingly or repeatedly violates any rule.

The legislature also considered a measure that would entitle an employee to 50% of his award until the appeal of the award if finalized.

South Dakota

The South Dakota legislature adjourned in March. They made the following amendments to their workers' compensation law:

- If a surviving spouse remarries, payments to eligible surviving children may not begin until after 2 years from the date of remarriage.
- Extends coverage to volunteer firefighters who are considered employees of the state. They are entitled to the maximum compensation for injury or death.
- Allows employers to negotiate a deductible for workers' compensation, higher than the previous limit of $2,500. The premium is to be based on a rating schedule approved by the Director of Insurance.
- No compensation benefits will be paid if the injury was caused by illegal drug use.
- Workers' compensation benefits must be paid within 10 days or a 10% penalty is assessed.

Tennessee

The Tennessee legislature adjourned in June after actively addressing workers' compensation. They amended the law in the following ways:

- Allows the employee to choose any health care provider from the Tennessee Provider Network in addition to choosing from the list of 3 the employer provides.
- The court may grant up to a 50% of workers' compensation benefits to fulfill child support obligations. Also, the court may grant up to 20% of any lump sum settlement to settle back payments of child support.
- Increases burial expenses from $3,000 to $4,500.

The legislature also considered, but did not enact, S. 1317 a reform bill. Its major provisions included:

- Would create a 3-member Workers' Compensation Commission, appointed by the Governor.
- The Workers' Compensation Commission would be able to decide appeals from any order from a hearing officer on a de novo basis. Two members concurring would constitute a decision.
- Would create a 6-member Advisory Council on Workers' Compensation to be appointed by the Governor. Would meet at least twice each year to review Tennessee workers' compensation and issue a report of finding to Governor and other government officials.
- Would require the Workers' Compensation Commission to establish a medical fee schedule with a minimum at the 60th percentile and maximum at the 80th percentile. Would be revised annually.
- Would create an option for parties in disputed claims to meet in a benefit review conference, a "non-adversarial, informal dispute resolution proceeding."
- Contested claims would be heard by a hearing officer. Decisions would have to be rendered within 30 days of the hearing.
- PP would be determined by calculating impairment with respect to age, education and physical capacity, but the percentage of disability could not exceed 99%. It also states that everyone should be "provided with the opportunity to return to gainful employment" with a minimum dependence on compensation benefits.

- Would not allow compensation benefits to exceed 400 weeks.
- Lump sum payments upon approval would be equal to the value of all future payments of compensation less 6%.

In addition, a number of other workers' compensation bills were introduced. They addressed the following subjects:

- Would require that compensation be paid within 10 days (currently 15 days) after the employer has knowledge of injury or death.
- Would increase the lump sum payment for any employee who dies and leaves no dependents from $10,000 to $12,500.
- Would allow attorney's fees based on percentage and an attorney could charge an employee for expenses incurred for a workers' compensation case. Expenses would have to be approved by the court before an employee would be required to pay. Currently there is a 20% of recovery cap on attorney's fees.
- Would establish a medical fee schedule that would not fall below the 70th percentile or above the 90th percentile of current rates.
- Would change the appeals process by allowing any employee to appeal a judgment to the Court of Appeals. Currently, appeals go to the Tennessee Supreme Court.
- Would entitle an employee to receive 3 times the amount of a claim if timely payment for TT is not made and the court determines that delay was unjust.
- Would change the waiting period from 7 days to 5 days for which no compensation would be payable.

Texas

The Texas legislature met without major change to it workers' compensation law. A May 9 decision, however, ruled that the entire Texas workers' compensation law that passed in December 1989 and took effect on January 1, 1991 is unconstitutional. An appeal to the Texas Supreme Court is planned, and a decision may not come until next year. During the interim, the new workers' compensation law remains in effect until a future decision is rendered.

Utah

The Utah legislature adjourned in February. They amended the workers' compensation law with the enactment of the Occupational Disease Act. Major provisions of the new law include:

- Defines disability as becoming medically impaired as to function. Disability can be total or partial, temporary or permanent, industrial or nonindustrial.
- Defines impairment as a purely medical condition reflecting any anatomical or functional abnormality or loss. Impairment may be either temporary or permanent, industrial or nonindustrial.
- Creates a new hearing loss provision that allows compensation for hearing loss only if it can be demonstrated that the employee has been exposed to harmful industrial noise.
- The cycles at which hearing loss is measured are: 500, 1,000, 2,000 and 3,000 cps.
- Compensable hearing loss using ANSI 69 is 25 DB. Loss of hearing is considered total at 91 DB.
- Period for which compensation for hearing loss is paid was increased from 100 weeks to 109 weeks.
- An employee must report within 180 days when he first suffered altered hearing and knew that it was caused by employment.
- Claims for TT, TP, PP & PT disability benefits are barred unless an application for a hearing is filed within 6 years after the date of employee's cause of action arose.
- Claims for death must be filed within 1 year of knowing the death was caused by an occupational disease.

Virginia

The Virginia legislature adjourned in February but has been meeting in special session since April. They made the following amendments to their workers' compensation law.

- Expands rehabilitation services to include: vocational evaluation, counseling, job coaching, development and placement, on-the-job training, education and retraining.
- Requires a notice be posted to tell employees how to file a claim if diagnosed with pneumoconiosis.

Washington

The Washington legislature adjourned in April. They enacted the following amendments to the workers' compensation law.

- The definition of worker does not include someone:
  1. who is free from control or direction over the performance of the service.
  2. whose service is either outside the usual course of business or is performed outside of the place of business of the enterprise for which the service is usually performed.
  3. who is customarily engaged in an independently established trade, occupation, profession or business of the same nature involved in the contract of service.
  4. who is responsible for filing a schedule of expenses with the Internal Revenue Service.
  5. individual has established an account with the Department of Revenue and other state agencies for paying state taxes and has a unified business identification number from the state.
  6. who maintains a separate set of books and records that reflect all income and expenses of the business.
- Voluntarily elected or voluntarily appointed officer who is also a bona fide director and a shareholder of the corporation and who exercises substantial control in the daily management of the corporation is exempt from workers' compensation coverage. A corporation that is not a public company may elect exemption of up to 8 officers if they also meet the criteria stated above.

Wyoming

The Wyoming legislature adjourned in February. They enacted the following amendments to the workers' compensation law:

- Medical care may be obtained within Wyoming or an adjoining state, if closer to the scene of the accident or the usual place of employment. Reimbursement for travel is paid for distances greater than 10 miles, and for ambulance travel.
- If an injured worker requires a wheel chair during disability, artificial replacement may include ramps, car devices, remodeling bars and rails, or other necessary equipment.
- A worker who has a successive compensable injury but no single employer can be determined to be chargeable for those injuries, the division will then distribute the benefit charge to employers in the general industrial classification in which the employee was employed at the time of the most recent claim.
